DAVIS - STAMPFLY WED BY CANDLELIGHT

The wedding vows of Miss Constance Gail Davis and Mr. John Stampfly were exchanged by candlelight in a double ring ceremony at the Catholic church at eight o'clock Saturday evening, October 14th. The Rev. Canon Olin officiated. Music was by Mrs. Arthur Feilhaber. Duets of "I Love You Truly" and "O Promise Me" were sung by the Misses Carol Papenfus and Vicki Christensen. Bouquets of large white chrysanthemums on each side of the rostrum provided a floral setting for the ceremony, which was attended by one-hundred seventy-five guests.

The bride was given in marriage by her uncle, Vivian Campbell, who chose for her wedding a gown of white lace and net over taffeta lace bodice with wrist-length sleeves, and a floor-length skirt of net covered with lace below the waist. Her tapered veil fell to a length in back. It was held by a crown of matching lace trimmed with seed pearls and crystals. She carried a colonial

County Valuation Placed At Over Nine Million

County Board of Supervisors Levy 1951 County Tax Of $254,737.80

The Crawford County Board of Supervisors in their regular October session levied a total tax in the county for 1951 of $254,737.80. This is in contrast to $226,483.31 in 1950 and $218,872.22 in 1949.

The tax is based on a total valuation of over $9,300,000 as equalized by the board. This brings the county valuation in balance with the state equalized valuation for Crawford County.

Of the total tax, county and township government will receive a total of $91,029.84. Last year the figure was $89,897.98. In 1950 it was $73,648.46. Also to be raised for the county although not for county expenses is $9,381.71 for the county jail building fund.

The balance of the 1951 tax will go to the school districts in the county. Their total will be $154,326.25.

In 1950, the county's schools received $138,797.33. In 1949 it was $142,330.76. Thus the schools, faced with ever growing costs, will have an extra $15,228.82 to try and meet their 1951 budget.

The total tax based on the 1950 census of 4,917 persons in Crawford County would mean a tax of $51.81 for each and every man, woman and child in the county. This, however, is not quite a true picture as the county receives some tax from the State of Michigan for conservation and military lands within the county's borders. Likewise a good share of the tax burden will be carried by summer residents who own cabins, lodges and cottages on the various streams and lakes in Crawford County.

Grayling Loses 19 to 0 To East Jordan Red Devils

The Boyne City Ramblers, only unbeaten eleven in the Northern Class C Conference, will provide opposition Grayling's lighted gridiron in the Memorial Recreation Area this Friday night in the 1950 homecoming game.

The Vikings could gladden the hearts of their rooters and tie the conference up in knots if they could rise to the heights Friday night and trip up the front running Ramblers. On the basis of action in the conference thus far, it would appear quite unlikely that Grayling could stop the Ramblers. But strange things happen in the conference as was witnessed by last week's action.

The Charlevoix Red Raiders, held to a tie by Grayling, knocked the Harbor Springs Rams out of the unbeaten class by a close 18-16 score. Harbor had walloped Grayling, Boyne City, whose luster lost a little of its glitter, just smacked by the winless Pellston Hornets 12 to 6. The Mancelona team kept a conference championship hopes alive with a 44 to 19 thumping of the Gaylord Blue Devils.

It can be said of the Northern

Bellaire Stops Frederic, 39-6

The Frederic Eagles were stopped at Bellaire last Saturday night by a 39 to 6 score. The Eagles were not up to par with their regular quarterback Ron Mertes on the shelf with shoulder injury.

Redman took over the quarterbacking details as Frederic. The game had originally been slated for the Grayling gridiron but was moved to Bellaire to accommodate the homecoming carnival being held there.

Frederic's lone score came on the final play of the game when Ben Pratt stole the ball in the Bellaire backfield and romped in from ten yards out.

Bellaire tallied three times on long pass plays when Frederic defensive halfbacks hungrily drove in for tackles allowing the pass receivers to get behind them.

Frederic had an open field in Bellaire's running game, Bellaire's first tally came on a 50 yard punt return of a Frederic kick. Jerry Gabriel was blocked from behind by the girls in Mrs. Conpton's homemaking classes.

The faculty of the Grayling schools would deeply appreciate a good attendance at the "open house".

Michigan Milk Producers Launch Seal Campaign

Traverse City — The Michigan Milk Producers Association of northern Michigan has launched an intensive campaign to acquaint consumers with a new seal which is now appearing on the milk cartons of dairies located in northern Michigan.

The purpose of the seal is to designate milk produced and processed in the northern part of the state. Dale Long, supervisor of northern markets for NMPA, said the program will encourage consumers to purchase local milk.

The seal shows a map of Michigan with the northern portion indicated as the "Hub of Health."

Long is urging that the public support local industry, not only as an economic consideration, but also because we believe we are offering a product of excellent quality.

Long announced that the advertising program to introduce the seal will utilize some 15 northern Michigan newspapers, three television stations and four radio stations in the region.

Grayling JV's Lose To Gaylord 20 - 0

Last Thursday, the Grayling junior varsity traveled north to Gaylord to take on the "little Blue Devils." They came out on the short end of a 20 to 0 score. However, the final score by Gaylord will always be a question. The final play of the game ended in a penalty and the officials gave Gaylord another pass on the down. The little Blue Devils took advantage of the break and scored on a pass play.

The little Vikings lost to Gaylord 19 to 6 in their first game of the season here. But they day they were without the services of Chris Kroil whose outstanding play on the junior varsity gave him a boost to the varsity squad.

JV coach Fritz Dean said he felt the Grayling team looked very good and gained ground all over the gridiron. However, when they got down close, they couldn't seem to pull off the scoring punch. Gaylord led by only 7 to 0 with two minutes to play but two pass plays rang up two more touchdowns for them.

The Grayling passing attack was very good with Tim Neat passing and Tom Wright moving on the receiving end. Gary Lucksted looked very good on defense and was effective as an offensive blocker. Grayling threatened on five different occasions but couldn't drive over.

The Grayling jayvees close out their season next Thursday night at the Memorial Recreation Area when they entertain the Kalkaskas Junior Varsity. They stopped Kalkaska 13 to 7 in a game there a few weeks ago.

Mrs. Davis greeted her guests in a sheath dress of old ivory with matching accessories. A corsage of yellow mums completed her costume. Mrs. Stampfly was dressed in a royal blue sheath with matching accessories. Her corsage was of white bebe mums. The newlyweds made a honeymoon trip up the new Canadian highway around Lake Superior, through Minnesota, Wisconsin and back by way of the upper peninsula, just when the leaf coloring was at its height. Mrs. Stampfly chose a dark blue sateen dress with black accessories for her going-away attire. With it she wore a white bebe mums corsage.

Mr. and Mrs. Stampfly are at home to their friends at their cottage on the East Branch. The young couple both graduated from Grayling High School in 1958. The bride attended Northeastern School of Commerce at Bay City for a year, and has been employed by John Bruun for about a year. He husband is employed at the Grayling Oil Company station. They have the best wishes of their many friends in the community.

Here to attend the wedding were guests from Alpena, Frederic, Howell, Bath, Caseville, Houghton Lake, Blue Lake and Stanton.

Reasons for the increase are hard to find.

While the flow of traffic has increased, the number of casualties per 100,000 vehicles miles has gone up. This means that more accidents because more miles are driven is not the answer.

The inescapable conclusion is that drivers do not practice safety as conscientiously as they might.

There has been no decrease in publicity efforts by the State Safety Commission nor any letdown in police vigilance. In fact, safety programs and enforcement procedures are better than ever.

But deaths which occurred through the end of September numbered 1,073.

The figure was expected to go even higher with reports of delayed fatalities. It was already 3 per cent higher than last year.

With fairly solid statistics for August, State Police said deaths for the first eight months of 1960 were 8 per cent above the previous year, and injuries were a shocking 43 per cent above 1959.

VACATION TRAVEL IN MICHIGAN—if it gets a boost from fall travelers—could reach the volume attained last year.

The Michigan Tourist Council said inquiries through August were about 16 per cent below the same period in 1959. Inquiries during September ran about the same as in September, 1959, however, indicating interest in autumn travel continues high.

Robert J. Furlong, the Council's executive director, said "from all indications" the summer tourist volume was slightly below last year.

He said an upswing in travel during July and August plus high expectations for fall and winter travel offset some of the early season lag, which he attributed to cool weather.

Favorable autumn weather could bring the dollar volume of the tourist business near the $650 million spent last year, Furlong said.

PEOPLE WHO LIVE IN glass houses don't have to worry about fires.

For those who live in conventional structures of wood and other combustible materials, however, the Michigan Fire Inspectors Society has a warning: Don't panic.

That is, don't panic if your house is a fire. Call the fire department and give full information about the blaze.

William J. Luck, of Coldwater, was general chairman of the Fire Inspectors 11th annual conference at Michigan State University recently.

He told the story about a housewife who called the fire department and screamed into the telephone: "My back room is on fire."

"Where is it?" asked the dispatcher at the fire department.

"Behind the kitchen," the woman said, and hung up. Luck said the episode actually happened in Michigan, and similar occurrences are not rare in this and other states.

Luck used the story to point out the necessity for directing firemen to the fire so they can perform their duties.

He warned that when a blaze is in the hands of firemen the house

Grayling, Michigan, Thursday, October 20, 1960

Economic Future Looks Good . . .

Bad news, it seems, often gets more attention than good. This little truism can be applied to the American economy. Isolated declines in certain fields of production, and even mild slowdowns in certain growth rates, have been singled out, and pessimists have deduced from these that there is serious trouble ahead.

The problem this presents is apparent. In the words of a top executive of U. S. Steel, "There is danger that our people will forget, if only temporarily, how strong our country is, how great its accomplishments and how dynamic and promising its future."

No sensible man argues that everything is perfect in the economy, and that all the widely varied indices used to measure its ups and downs are precisely as we'd want them. But even a cursory survey of the facts and figures demonstrates that the plus factors outweigh the minus ones — and by very wide margins.

Here are some of those facts and figures:

The gross national product — which is the total value of all the goods and services produced in this country — is the most comprehensive measure of national growth. At mid-1960, it had attained a level of $505 billion a year — a figure which would have seemed almost impossibly fanciful not many years ago. Moreover, the trend is still upward, even though by a slightly smaller percentage than in the immediate past.

Personal income measures the money we Americans receive from any and all sources — wages and salaries, dividends, pensions, and so on. It thus is the total of our nation's consumer spending power. This August it reached an annual rate of $408 billion — 4 per cent more than in the same month last year.

Retail sales, always an important barometer of conditions, have been running at very high levels during this year, despite more restrained use of credit and a material increase in savings. And it now looks as if 1960 auto sales will reach the second highest total in history — as much as 6.5 million cars.

Total construction, in the face of a decline in home building, is another highly encouraging factor. The anticipated 1960 figure is $55.5 billion. That is well above the 1958, 1957 and 1956 levels, and only slightly under the record established last year.

One of the most important of all indices is investment in plant and equipment by industry. This is what makes future growth, and gives the nation new and improved plants to produce new and better products for consumers. Here, also, the picture is bright. The 1960 figure will be about $37 billion — a whopping 13 per cent above that of last year. Investment in research is also, growing at an explosive rate — which means more new and valuable products of every conceivable kind.

Employment and unemployment figures hold a high place in the minds of everyone — business executives, employees and consumers. It is true that we have 3.8 million unemployed, and that the problem is a serious one in certain areas. However, last August we had 68.3 million employed civilians — 1.1 million more than a year before.

So it goes down an almost endless list of gains. And these aren't limited to production figures. Individual and family incomes, measured in constant dollars, have increased substantially and continue to increase. Our health is very much improved, as declines in the general death rate, and especially in infant and maternal mortality rates, show. Educational standards are rising, and more young people are studying for advanced degrees. It is significant, in this connection, that since 1946 nearly half of the Nobel awards for original contributions to medicine, chemistry and physics have been conferred on Americans.

No economy surges ever-forward with never a pause. In ours, as in others, temporary dips are to be expected. But, going by the massive weight of the evidence, we have every right to optimism, and to confidence in the economic future.

Letters To The Editor

Oct. 15, 1960

Dear Mr. Strong:

While having nothing to do this weekend, I decided to take up my Avalanche and get the home town news. I'm sorry to say that usually I only read the sports section, which I think is very well reported. But this weekend I read your whole paper. I was really surprised to find out that your "Bits O' Talk" section is really interesting. While reading it I felt like I was back home again. I promise you this sir from now on I sure will read all the paper not just the sports section. One more thing, sir, I will soon be transferred from the first Lieutenant division to Aviation Supply. Where I will be rated and work as an (A.K.) Aviation Storekeeper. I am also advanced from Airman Apprentice to Airman.

I wish also to thank you for sending me my Avalanche every week. I can also say sir, in service away from home, your Avalanche makes all feel closer to home and we look forward to your paper every week. In case you would like to put my friends address in the paper his address is: Tom G. Brooks, USS Calcuttara, U. S. Naval Base, Newport, Rhode Island. Tom is on a radar picket ship.

I hope you will excuse my sloppy writing as we have a shortage of chairs and I have to write this letter on my cot. Thanks again for my weekly edition of the Avalanche.

As Ever,
Roy Lovely, Jr.

"That Thou Mayest Understand"

By Paul W. Johnson

The scum and debris intermingling to form a raft moving up and down, keeping as close to the shore as possible without touching it, and the two schools of fish swimming by the pier pilings. The third and final gangway is being attached to the huge crane for removal. The sailors throw pennies by the handfuls on the pier and the small children scramble after them, and older folk scramble equally as fast getting out of their way.

The last gangway had been removed when I looked down on the very edge of the pier and saw a girl who fascinated me. Her outfit consisting of a smooth, full skirt and a fairly loose fitting sweater was made of lavender material. She had a blue scarf on her shoulder. Length strawberry blonde hair. In her big blue eyes, which were accentuated by her lavender outfit, I saw sadness. We were crowded together on the deck rail, but when she looked in my general direction I knew she was looking into my eyes. Perhaps, as we held our gaze for a moment, she saw sadness in my eyes, looked into the distance at the swilling waters just outside of the harbor and couldn't help at wondering what the conditions were going to be like in other countries. Just how will they compare with the conditions in the United States? How clean will they be where dirt is concerned? How wicked in sin? What kind of roads do they have? "Trust in the Lord," Heavenly Father holds the key. If He allows, only time will tell.

As a token of their love, each sailor threw his white hat to the girl on the pier. Another scramble ensued which found giggling, happy teenagers. As the girls proudly wore their new possessions, my gaze once again drifted back to the strawberry blonde. The sadness I could see in her eyes wasn't caused by her sailor leaving, it was a different kind of sadness. More like the kind caused by an argument between them, and as his ship was putting out, it was as if he would never see him again. She looked into my eyes and we held our gaze once again with somber expressions. Very faintly, she smiled. I saw her once more, as more pennies flew through the air to the pier below. In the midst of the scramble his ring came down from an upper deck. When she retrieved it, she was smiling. For her, from then on, needless to say, there was no more sadness in those eyes of blue.

As our ship pulled away from the two tugs which were following us, I saw her again. I went topside to the flight deck to watch the scenery, still with a heavy heart, only with something new added. Something I've never known before. I saw her once more, as more pennies flew through the air to the pier below. In the midst of the scramble his ring came down from an upper deck. When she retrieved it, she was smiling. For her, from then on, needless to say, there was no more sadness in those eyes of blue.

side. A varying pitch, but always there. A "copter" took off from the flight deck in a routine flight under the vision of visiting brass, newsmen, and 23 visiting state senators. Continuing out of the harbor we went under the Bay Bridge, past Treasure Island and into deep water. The wind blew through me as I was standing on the bow of the ship, blowing as the wind has a habit of doing there. (I've never known a wind like that in Illinois. Why must I leave the States, my home? To protect it, and the others who call it home. To them who love it as I. "I Will Never Leave These Nor Forgive Them.")

The fog was back against the mountain tops leaving a misty view of the famed Golden Gate Bridge. (It reminded me of the Mackinac Bridge crossing the Straits of Mackinac) to the left set back on the side of a hill was a small community that reminded me of some pictures I had once seen of ancient Greece. Straight ahead, the Golden Gate. Off to the right was another new experience for me. The Rock. Alcatraz. The hundreds of who have no home but the Rock. The hundreds of men who would gladly accept one more given chance and trade places with me. I thought of Karl Chessman... my sadness departed. How fortunate I am to be serving in the Navy of my country, serving to uphold Justice, Freedom and the American Way! Yet, how many people in the United States actually realize how fortunate they are to be living, working and raising families in a country where Freedom of the Press, Freedom of Speech, and Freedom of Religion exist? "In Everything Give Thanks!"
